MSM Students View Fight

The M.B.A. version of the middleweight championship fight between champion Gene Fullmer and challenger Joey Giardello held in Bozeman, Tuesday, April 20, saw several Mines students among the 12,500 spectators present. Fullmer, from West Jordan, Utah, successfully defended the title he took from Carmen Basilio by battling to a draw with Giardello from Brooklyn, New York. Pop quiz averages showed somewhat as the students took a night away from the books to view the bloody battle. The several students and fans saw the No. 7 ranked challenger of RING magazine cut the champion severely in the hectar third round and re-open the cut in all but the 14th and 15th rounds. The draw decision was in the minds of most a rook for the challenger who scored heavily with both hands.

If Missoula were to be the sight of the next middleweight championship fight, it is expected that an even larger attendance of Mines students would be on hand to see what the champion could do to defend the title against Basilio.

Manager Needed

By Dick Vincelette

The Student Council is taking applications now from all persons interested in applying for the position of manager of the Copper Lounge.

The new council members, who will take office on May 4, will appoint the manager before the end of the year so that he may assume his responsibilities as soon as school begins next fall.

The condition of the Copper Lounge will be charged with the responsibilities of keeping the Lounge clean and orderly. Among his duties will be such things as maintaining a calendar of events, attending meeting rooms, coordinating activities, and maintaining order.

Reimbursement will be in the form of a rent-free apartment located in the basement of the Copper Lounge. This apartment will be fully furnished, and all utilities will be paid by the school. The apartment has an ultra-modern kitchen with built-in oven and stove, combination living and dining room, and an abundance of storage facilities. In addition, it is equipped with an automatic clothes washer and dryer.

Any student is eligible for the position of manager. However, it is particularly ideal for a married man who has been awarded a full assistantship at Mackay for the 1960-61 school year. Those interested should send their applications to Mr. and Mrs. Ken Erickson.

Copper Lounge Is Completed

The Copper Lounge, the new addition to the Montana School of Mines Campus, has been completed, President Koch has confirmed. A good structure, according to the architect, the contractors, and M.H. F. A. representatives, and an engineer from the Board of Ex- miners office.

Bids on furnishings will open Thursday, May 19, at 8 p.m. at the office of the State Purchasing Agent. Delivery can be expected within thirty to sixty days after that date. According to Dr. Koch, adequate minimum furnishings have been required for the entire building, but this will not be complete. During the summer of 1960, landscaping and final interior decorating will take place in order to complete the structure entirely for use next fall.

The manager's apartment located within the building is now complete. Specifications and other details concerning the managerial position will be announced at a later date.

After final inspection and dedication, the building will be opened to the students.

MSM Faculty Members Attend Meeting At MSC

Miss Elizabeth Sitter, Mr. William Catanerio, and Dr. Adam Smith at the Twenty-first Annual Meeting of the Montana Academy of Sciences at Bozeman.

The group arrived in Bozeman on Friday afternoon in time to take in the afternoon meetings. That evening they attended a banquet which was held at the Student Union Building on the MSC campus. Following the ban- quet, a speech pertaining to the August earthquake was given by Dean C. Bradbury, head of the Geology Department.

The regular meetings resumed again at 8 o'clock on Saturday morning. Of special interest to the group were the lectures given in the Physical Science section of the program. During the after- noon the group went on a field trip to the Hebgen earthquake area. Various aspects of the quake area were explained to the group while they were inspecting the faults created by the earthquake last summer.

Following the field trip, the group proceeded to the MSC campus and later arrived in Butte Saturday night.

Congratulations

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Erickson are proud to announce that they have been awarded two assistantships at Mackay for the 1960-61 school year. Those interested should send their applications to Mr. and Mrs. Ken Erickson.

The Montana School of Mines has been awarded a share of a $4,000,000 grant, made by the Small Business Administration, R. O, Sowers, Jr., Montana Commerce and Development, announced recently.

The project of compiling a record- keeping handbook for small mining businesses, will be handled by U. S. Geological Survey, geologi- st, Montana Bureau of Mines and Geology.

The manual will include technical directions on obtaining and utilizing information as amounts and grades of ore mined, costs of treating and mining ore, taxes accrued and prices received from various ores.

"There is a serious need for a simple system of record keeping for small mining companies," Wofford said. "Most handbooks of record keeping have been written for big businesses rather than for the small mining enterprises."

EDITORIAL

Elections for student body offices will be held Wednesday, and although everybody has cliches concerning "Get out and vote," Theta Tau, Sigma Chi, F. T. A., the foot of the election, still deserve a fresh—-it is hoped—edit.

First, it is invigorating to see some independent candidates running on this year's ballot. This third element should tend to make the elections something more than just a game. This is not to speak badly of the fraternities, however, because without their efforts in the election, it would be a dull affair. At the same time, it is irritable that on years when there are no independent candidates, the independent candidates from junior student bodies are thrown out. The single ones that belong to fraternities—are forced to vote either for candidates running on a fraternity ticket or not at all.

"Who cares?" This question often arises concerning college politics. Our attitude is that the student government does not have the power to change the school administration itself. "After all, a student government derives its power from the school administration, not from the students; even less from the hands of the school officials." This statement, in the final analysis, is probably true. Student governments exist by consent of administrators and those of the students. However, they do still exist and do still have certain duties. In like manner, the administration exists by consent of the State Board of Education, which exists by consent of the citizenry, which exists by consent of God. So student governments should be often followed when they have power which is delegated to them. The situation is universal. Nor should they despair because they are in a minority. A pyramid of delegations. As is commonly the ease, the base is the foundation, the place one must start in order to build a university structure—be it individual character, home, school, national or world.

"Who cares?" Do you?

Open Letter to Young Adults at M. S. M.

I read the article in regard to grade school treatment of students, with interest. It is much to commend on the article and the viewpoint expressed. Certainly the school should be adult. But these students deserve to be treated as such. Speaking for myself, but I believe I prefer to assume that the students in grades one through six are not boys, but women. Furthermore, I feel justified in assuming that I, as a fellow student, am not a subject, but the student. Certainly they are not forced to attend. In fact, I think it is a right of the student to not be paying good money so that the student may have the privilege of being educated.

There are, however, certain impositions in the article that deserve comment. Specifically, it is implied that individual faculty members enjoy conducting freshmen orientation classes, and that they do so in an effort to catch the unprepared or under-prepared student. I know that the latter charge is probably true in many cases, but I do not think that it is true for the vast majority of teachers it is completely false. The professors are, as a body, interested in the education of students. They are not populating a classroom, nor are they pre-positions in an effort to catch the unprepared. They work to help correct the student with whom they are dealing. The students in grades one through six were affected we could arise in the shadows all day, but the only response will be everyone will find out some of the constructive things they have been doing on the MSM campus.

Whatever criticism you yourself receive on these editorials, keep it up, for this campus has much room for improvement

Letters to the Editor...

Dear Sir:

I would like to congratulate you on your recent material! The editor to get information and arouse curiosity in regard to various campus organizations, etc.

I believe any mature person should be able to accept criticism as something learned. More times than not, it is something good for a reason. Every able- person makes mistakes. So do I. As time progresses, whether it be on appearance, or any other level, a little kick in (you know where) by means of criticism is probably what more people in this world need.

In referring to some of your past articles, maybe the criticized professor, On what for example, or maybe you, editor, are in the wrong. In reference to the Copper Guards, they have been back in the shadows all day, but the only response will be everyone will find out some of the constructive things they have been doing on the MSM campus.

Whatever criticism you yourself receive on these editorials, keep it up, for this campus has much room for improvement.

Should A Catholic Be President?

John Dwyer—A Catholic would not make as good a President, provided he was qualified, as anyone else.

Jim M—-I don't think we should have a Catholic President because everything that good wrong in the country be blamed on the Catholic Church.

John Carrigan—If we have another war in a way connected with religious matters, or any foreign leader, Catholic Church would not interfere.

Dave Kohon—A Catholic could be President but according to some people we would have to keep the Pope from coming over in our atomic sub and taking over our country

Ralph Curtis—I don't think I can give my whole opinion on this matter without going into great detail so I will decline to answer the question for the present time.

Ed Sore—If the people want a Catholic they should vote for one.

John Holling—The President should be the people's man. The President is their choice. He should be the people's man and he should do the thing for the people and their country. He should be a Christian, or at least a man who is able to be in good standing in his church, union or business interest

President
Don Mahagn

Don Mahagn, metallurgy major with a 3.95 grade index, is the independent candidate for Student Body President.

Don, being an outstanding student, Don has been extremely active in campus affairs. His activities included being a member of the Student Council this year as Student Manager of the Athletic Department. He is also a member of the M Club, AIME and A.S.M.

In sports, Mahagn has participated in varsity basketball for three years and in baseball for three. Last year, his 44 points a game led the team in scoring.

For his outstanding achievements, Don was awarded the Coulter Foundation Scholarship for 1959-1960.

Don served three years in the Marine Corps before enrolling in the School of Mines. He is married and has one son.

Vice President
Webb Garey

Webb Garey, Bill Pickard and Darwin Ekstrom are a trio of independent students running for student body offices this year so that "independent students won't be forced to choose between frazzled candidates on M-day."

Both Garey and Pickard are candidates for delegate while Ekstrom is running for secretary-treasurer.

Webb Garey, the first candidate mentioned, is a sophomore who hails from Kalispell and declares himself independent all the way. "Webber" plans to major in metallurgy and get a good start in that direction. He is 6 feet 3 inches tall and about 175 pounds. He has won two letters on the Oredigger's basketball squad, giving the Miner's fans many enjoyable moments with his backboard roughhouse and easy going manner. Among "Webbers" activities at the School of Mines are membership in Copper Guards, AIME and the M-Club. Webb resides in "Babbits Quack" with his wife, Addie Lou, and daughter, Kerry Ann.

Bill Pickard, the other GDI candidate for delegate, comes from Miles City and is going major in petroleum engineering. Bill is presently vice president of the Sophomore Class and is also a member of the Copper Guards and AIME. Upon release from active Navy duty in the M Club, Pickard enrolled in the Mines in 1958 and has an overall grade-point average of 3.28. His interests include playing intramural basketball for the independents and helping to elect himself and his cohorts GDI's into student council office.

Darwin Ekstrom, the GDI candidate for secretary-treasurer, is a sophomore student from Anacortes, Washington. Ekstrom is a metallurgy major. Since being released from the Navy, where he spent four years, Darwin has been enrolled at the Mines. "Mau Mau," as Darwin is affectionately called by friends, is a pitcher on the Mines baseball team who tossed two wins against one loss last year.

Three GDI candidates join in saying "Think for yourself and vote Independent."
New Suits Stay New

The team's new baseball uniforms remained new, but not unclaimed, as Montana's spring weather (snow) prevented the use of the new suits in the Western conference double-header scheduled for Friday, March 22, due to the cancellation of the games. The suits were returned to the shelves due to a full schedule by both teams. The possession of the suits remains through May 2, (the date scheduled for the Carroll double-header) were many, as snow continued to fall all week, following the Western cancellation to the time the paper went to press last Friday.

The fifteen cleaners of the uniforms who survived the final cut of the baseball team are the following: Greg, Jonway, Lou Djura, Dickson, Dwyer, Gross, Hartman, Erickson, Kveton, Kot, Belangius, Keegan and Brian.

The new uniforms, gray in color, with zipper-type blouses and green numbers include green and orange stripes, white sweat shirts with orange sleeves and green uni-sizes with orange pants are "crowd." The remaining players who are still very much in contention for one of the new uniforms include the following: Brown, D. Henderson, Dypyua, J. Tewett, D. MacMillan, and Tanemilt.

Coach Cullen and the team remain under the guidance of Pete Gilligan, manager.

Gosh!

Let us see how this thing operates. Does it fit in this hole?

No. I know it behooves me in one of these suits to go out on the field and begin work. But let us try it this way. What's that crunking sound? What's everyone looking at me for? Ah! The noise is going away at last. I guess it is the weather that has been hanging around my desk and will write as soon as I get it.
Candidates Discuss Campaign Strategy

Latest on the...Mines Better Half

It seems that the Co-ed Club has finally come to the conclusion that absolutely nothing can be accomplished at a formal meeting, so they have been doing without them. The effects of this new undertaking are found present in the co-ed room. In place of the old first-aid kit, the room now contains two m i s s - m a t e d floor lamps; the attempt of a co-ed artistic element has added two new masterpieces to the already famous collection of two; the gaudy Persian tapestry, instead of hiding you after you have completely entered the room, it now shows you when you open the door; the map of Montana which formerly hung by the door has mysteriously disappeared; and it seems that someone was finally paid to wax and floor the room.

But this is an inside story, which is of no interest to the male student: he is interested in what affects him directly, the Coffee Shop. The main excuse given by the co-eds was that their coffee maker had been borrowed and not returned, now it's 'Oh! we've run out of coffee'. You know, of course, that most of it was used E-Day. We, confronted by our professors upon failing an exam, in turn use the excuse, 'I'm not worth a darn without that morning cup of coffee (even if it does nearly kill me).'

An executive was finding it hard to write a letter of reference for his recent assistant. Happy to see another employer—nor to mislead budding career—nor to mislead the former employee leave, he still felt he had no right to blight a budding career—nor to mislead another employer.

Finally he dictated a single sentence: "We believe this young man will go far, and are pleased to have had a part in helping him to get started and keeping him moving."

Student Wives Hold Tea

We heard of three letters recently, from the first a newly-recruited salesman.

"Dear Boss: I see this outfit which ain't never bought a dime's worth of nothing from us, and I sold them a couple hundred thousand dollars worth of goods. I am now going to Chicago."

The second letter came from the same salesman, dated two days later. "I came here and I sold them a half a million."

The third letter was from the company president. Enclosed were copies of the two other letters. Addressed to the whole sales force, it read:

"We been spendin' two month and half time trying to sell instead of trying to sell. Let's watch those sales."

I, "I want everybody should read these letters from Gooch, who is on the road doing a great job for us, and you should go out and do like he done."
