Mines to Hear Speaker On African Trip

The International Club will feature Kurt Weis at a public meeting Friday, November 4, at 8 p.m. in the Museum Hall. Kurt Johann Weis is a freshman mining engineering student from Augsburg, Bavaria. He will tell about his travels with his father to mines, native people and their way of life from Capetown, Union of South Africa, to Cairo, Egypt.

In 1954 Kurt Weis was born in the industrial city of Augsburg, where a "city within a city" had been built for the poor people by banking and industrial concerns. After graduating in 1954 from eleven years of schooling in Augsburg, comparable to our twelve years of grade and high school, Kurt studied at the Government Training School in Johannesburg, Union of South Africa, on a Chambers scholarship and earned a British Commonwealth Mining Diploma. He was the Mine Native Supervisor and worked among ten different tribes who had ten different languages. As a result of his travels, Kurt speaks such Zulu and Xhosa too. Although all racial and nationality types can be found in Johannesburg, strict segregation is evident--separate buses, restaurants and theaters. Except for this... (Continued on page 3, col. 4)
