Student Council Meets

At the Student Council meeting, held 27 September 1972, several controversial items were discussed and a new committee was appointed.

Chairmen for the Cultural Improvement Club for the Homecoming Board were the first source of controversy. Since no appointments were made to those positions last year, the president of the Student Council appointed himself chairman of the CIC if the debate was to be conducted.

The current status of the CIC was debated, and it was decided that applications for both positions will remain open. Applications will be received until 5:00 p.m. Wednesday, 11 October 1972, the day of the Student Council meeting.

A discussion on the Magna operations was the subject of the meeting. President John Lukasik, Business Manager of the Student Council and by Mrs. A. Dobney, faculty adviser to the Student Council, these co-chairmen will pick the rest of the committee.

Tom Hohn presented a report on the Model Cities Committee, where the purpose is to get buildings and improvements on the campus. The committee is being studied to make recommendations for the Student Council, since the Magna should be handled in the future. The committee is headed by the chairman of the CIC.

A new committee has been set up on campus to be used by all students who wish to present their ideas to the Student Council. Faculty and staff are also to be represented.

The President's office, the Administration, the Faculty and Staff are dedicated to serving the students, for you are "salvation's price." We are both starting a new year, one that hopefully will bring positive and beneficial changes to each of us, the campus, and our relations to the community. Let's all keep an open mind as the scene on campus develops this year.

Dr. DeMoney is a native of Oakridge, Illinois. He and his wife, Jane, are parents of five daughters, three of whom presently live with the family in Butte. DeMoney is fifty-two years old.

Mrs. A. Dobney is the new elementary German instructor. She received a BA degree in German at the University of Montana and hopes to have her MA soon.

Miss Engel's place. He was right. There was a "Since yesterday." he muttered weakly. "No, really," he pleaded to my agnostic view. "The line is moving." I reasoned, "That's all right; I'll trip this girl in front of me and you run up ten spaces during the ruckus and hold us a place." The honest man stopped me just before I went to my knees. "Crowd, he said as firmly as any haunted man could.

Bob to agnosticism, counted heads. He was right. There was a new head slowly bobbing up the stairs. "Then there's only one chance for us," I reasoned, "I'll trip this girl in front of me, and you run up ten spaces during the ruckus and hold us a place." Registration Line Hassle by Kenneth Stocks
A few weeks ago, while I was standing in the registration line at the gym, I met a honest man. Thin, pale, haggard and nearly collapsed with hunger, he leaned against the wall feebly clutching the stair-rail.

"Hello," I said cheerfully as I moved into line behind him. "Been here long?"

I looked at him yesterday," he muttered over a swollen, cracked tongue. "No, really," he pleaded to my agnostic face. Moving slightly he exposed a sweat stain in the pant pocket.

Even the Supreme Court would accept that as evidence so I, being a well trained agnostic, nodded unemotionally. "You're really a paraplectic agnostic with starchy trousers and don't want anyone to know, right?"

"No, really," he still pleaded and twitched his left ankle to refute my agnostic view. "The line is moving." I reasoned, "That's all right; I'll trip this girl in front of me and you run up ten spaces during the ruckus and hold us a place." "You're really a paraplectic concept that as evidence so

IN MEMORANDUM

Richard Shaw of Cardwell, Montana will not be returning to Tech for the fall term. Tech's basketball roster this year. The nineteen year old former star guard was fatally injured September 19th, when his car went out of control less than a mile from his home. His enthusiasm and drive will be missed by all who knew him.
McGovern States Views

In Richard Nixon and his heir apparent, Ronald Reagan, the administration is fighting to preserve the status quo. They are fighting for the favor of the few.

In light of our sparsely disclosed support from thousands of small contributors, the Republicans have revealed the sources of the $10 million they hastily gathered in before the new disclosure law took effect.

One can only conclude that making the rich pay a little more through large gifts from wealthy individuals and corporations seeking special favors, in their desperate efforts to retain power, is a rejection of the attempt to rewrite the history of the Nixon Administration, which is seeking to distort my views and programs for the future.

They stand for full employment, high wages, making health care available to all, and reducing the number of unemployed millions.

They stand for a balanced budget. But the Nixon deficits have already exceeded $20 billion in additional benefits of Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson.

The cumulative four-year Nixon deficit is $40 billion in the current fiscal year, eighth of the entire national debt. This small, but growing, budget deficit is a threat not only to the Republican party, but to the well-being of the country.

They stand for steady progress in all the areas of life, education, health care, cities and districts they or their candidates will represent.

They stand for new programs in the health care field, new safeguards for veterans, Medicare, ceilings on medical costs, and a 25% tax cut on medical costs.

They stand for increased wages and salaries for the working class, high inflation, a growing inflation, a higher standard of living, no cutting or reducing services to the poor, and no cuts in the social programs.

They stand for a balanced budget, no more deficits, no more spending, no more taxes, no more government interference in the economy.

SUB Modernizes

The Student Union Building is almost completely operational this semester. Food, book store and lounge facilities are in full swing while the recreation room, the only non-functioning facility, is nearing completion.

Food is available to students in the new college cafeteria. The open coffeepot sign indicates a limited offering of hot drinks until the second coffee machine is working. The cafeteria will open March 15th. Details of the coffee machine and other offerings are not yet clear.

The fall season is in full swing. The Montana Tech football team is playing well, and the basketball team is getting ready for the upcoming season. The intramural program is also underway, with Tech's Nick Obstar being the director of intramurals this semester.

Intramurals Underway

Montana Tech's intramural program will start in mid-October. Tech assistant football coach, Dick Zornes, will be the director of intramurals this season. There are no funds provided for the program, and it is hoped that funds will be budgeted in the future for this important part of Tech's Physical Education program.

Coach Zornes announced that this semester's program will include football, softball, handball, and wrestling. Zornes said that in order to carry on this expanded program, it will be necessary to hire three work study students to run the program.

Zornes said that it is hoped that golfing, bowling, softball and basketball will be added to the program second semester.

Basketball Team Begins Practice

The 1972 edition of Montana Tech basketball began practice on October 2. New head coach Battenburg announced that the Orediggers will be working on pressure basketball. Coach Battenburg said that the team will be ready for the first games of the season against University of California-Davis.

TECH Stomps Western

Tech opened their 1972 Frontier Conference season with a 38-16 victory over Western Montana's Bulldogs. The game hon-oring the players parents was scoreless for the first twenty-five minutes when quarterback Chris Shower scored on a 29 yard run. In the second half, Showers led the Orediggers to Three more touchdowns and a field goal earning him honors as offensive player of the game.

Defensive Safety Ed Pettigrew intercepted one pass and recovered a fumble on his way to De-fensive player of the game.
